

Wednesday, March 30, 2011

News from the Anchorage

Liz and I love it at the anchorage. Every morning we swim to the beach and do some Pilates (which Liz is learning from DVDs). We also do some Martial Arts. But not for very long, because Liz always starts to laugh after the second punch or so, drops on the sand, and curls up into a ball. Well, you can't have everything . Eeeek! Working in underwear because it's so hot. Other than that I was diving on Monday, and work on the boat is continuing. After having the bottle filled I could go down for a special "boat cleaning dive". Four months in Las Palmas and four weeks in the Simpson Bay Lagoon had left the boat already caked with shrimps and barnacles and stuff. Eeeeeek. Check out the picture. And today I was working (again) on the electrical installation. The kitchen appliances - suddenly high priority items - don't run on the old inverter, and I had to install a bigger one.

Posted by Axel Busch in Gudrun V at 19:30

Urlaubssorgen...

Anonymous on Mar 31 2011, 15:54

News from Ulm.

Wishing I were where you are! lol

Anonymous on Apr 1 2011, 05:23

News from the postman?

Anonymous on Apr 1 2011, 16:38

warm im paradies -eh!

aber das lämpfle is scho sexy . . .

gruess liz von uns

Anonymous on Apr 3 2011, 14:23